

MONEY AND POLITICS: ILLUMINATING THE CONNECTION

Staff

Dan Newman

Dan Newman, Co-Founder and Executive Director of MAPLight.org, a nonpartisan nonprofit illuminating the connection between money and politics in unprecedented ways. MAPLight.org's groundbreaking website reveals relationships between campaign donations and legislative votes, helping citizens and communities hold their elected officials accountable. The Sunlight Foundation called MAPLight.org "a preview of the next generation of money-and-politics reporting." Dan, an entrepreneur and political organizer, is the author of three books on speech recognition software and is the founder of Say I Can, a speech recognition firm. Dan co-founded the Berkeley Fair Elections Coalition and has served as a consultant to various political and nonprofit groups, including the Center for Voting and Democracy, Israel Venture Network, and the Mental Health Association of San Francisco. He received a MA in Psychology from the University of California at Berkeley, where he attended on a National Science Foundation Fellowship, and a BA in Biomedical Ethics from Brown University. He lives in Berkeley, California.

Andrew Page

Associate Director, leads development efforts for MAPLight.org. Andrew has 20 years experience in the nonprofit sector. He has served both as a Membership Director and Political Director of a large California-based grassroots lobby. He has extensive experience in coalition building, strategic planning and organizational development. He received his BA in Philosophy from Tufts University.

Sean Tanner

Research Manager, coordinates the MAPLight.org database and research internship program. Sean is the chair of the Young Advocates, a group of young professionals who support the work of Human Rights Watch. He received his BA in Contemporary Democracy from the University of California at Berkeley, where he graduated both Phi Beta Kappa and summa cum laude.
